She is of the opinion that her son would have preferred to remain a Senator instead of becoming the nominee for Vice-President.

Vice-President.

"I was in Washington last winter at his home," she said. "and many men came to him in regard to his being a candidate for Vice-President. I am, of course, very proud that he should have been nominated, and particularly since there was such a strong demand for him that he could hardly do otherwise than accept. I think the position he now has is one of the most honorable a man can have in politics. There is a great deal of influence and dignity about the Senate and a great many opportunities to do good."

It is all over now, this big convention. The pomp and circumstance of it is vanished away; its work is done, its mission fulfilled. But who its brief, but eventful life, will ever forget it? Never, perhaps, in the his-tory of freemen was a more thrilling cene enacted than that which took name of Theodore Roosevelt was pre-sented to his countrymen for the highest office in the gift of man. When ex-Gov. Black of New York, whose plendid privilege it was to make the ominating speech, finished his most eloquent presentation with the name of the hero of San Juan hill, ther

Clear and shrill rose the cry, and now it is taken up by the galleries, the wave of sound running and circling from one high balcony to another like the sweep of a leaping flame on the parched grass of a prairie. A flash of countless flags waved in a dazzling kaleldoscope of color. The

THE PLAG OF LINCOLN. Old Joe Cannon stood over the heads of the crowd and waved a flag that had been unfurled in the convention that first nominated Abraham Lincoln for the Presidency. Upon this again there rose that terrifying rumble of the thunder, and again it broke in awfuclimax. Twenty minutes had now standards of all the States and the the ceaseless cheering rang out beeath the great dome. The President's picture was borne along the crowded gangways, and it seemed that a giant

The truth is that never was there enthusiasm such as this paid in tribute to any man, living or dead, before.

It is all over now, the brave show of it, the music of its oratory, the casets, the laughter, the grand soul-stirring patriotism of it all. The work of this, the greatest of all the political conventions ever held, is done. That its work was well done and wisely done, the people will doubtless say with their ballots next November. It was equalled dispatch and in most perfect harmony.

It has placed before the people candidates who need no introduction to the nation, men who have been tried and not found wanting. And one is Theodore Roosevelt, who fought at San Juan Hill, and the other is Charles Warren Fairbanks, the gentlesouled Hoosier, whom they love most who know him best, "On the Banks of the Wabash, Far Away."

ST. PETERSBURG, June 23.—The charge of barbarous treatment of Russian wounded made against the Japalese by some Russian correspondent find general credence. Neither the foreign office, the war office, nor any of the foreign embassies, the at taches of which are alleged to have taches of which are alleged to have signed the incriminating statement, have received any confirmation of the accusation and no action is contemplated by the government until the charge has been substantiated. Doubts as to the truth of the charge are increased by reports of kindness and consideration shown by the Japanese in many instances to wounded Russians.

LESSONS FROM VAFANGOW

ST. PETERSBURG, June 23.leading Russian military expert, re-Vafangow, attributes the Japanese success to superior artillery and proph esies that the issue of future battle esies that the issue of future battles will be favorable to the side which places the most guns in the field, a superiority of one-third being sufficient to assure victory. He declared that Gen. Stakelberg's mission was to test the strength of the Japanese forces and that the lessons learned at Vafangow are not likely to be lost on Gen. Kouropatkin.

PEACE IN SANTO DOMINGO. HOW IT WAS ACCOMPLISHED.

WASHINGTON. June 23.—Semi-official advices received at the State Department give in detail the negotiations by which peace was accomplished in Santo Domingo. Much credit is given Capt. Dillingham—of the Detroit for the services he rendered while there.
The agreement entered into with—the revolutionists provides: First, the authority of the government will be recognized and the revolutionists will submit to its orders; second, they will deliver up all their arms, remaining with only 150 riles for the policing; third, the government guarantees their lives and property, and will not persecute them for the part they have taken in the revolution; fourth, the government will pay the debts and expenses made by the revolution; fifth, the government agrees that the military officers of each district shall be of their own district; sixth, the government gives them $3000 to pay off their troops.
The writer says—that he feels sure "we can now expect peace for a long time, and that the Morales government will consolidate the country. The people who could now start a revolution have entered into the above agreement, and are disgusted with Jiminez. The man has entirely lost his prestige, and cial advices received at the State Deand are disgusted with Jimines. The man has entirely lost his prestige, and I hardly think we will ever hear of hin again as the chief of a revolution."

WASHINGTON NOTES.

Lieut. Rodney's Suit. WASHINGTON, June 23. washington, June 23.—Because of the scandalous nature of an amended declaration filed in the District Supreme Court by Lieut. Chairman Parker of the Missouri delegation presented to the committee an invitation from David R. Francis, president of the Louisiana Furchase Exposition, asking the committee to dine with him tomorrow night. The thanks of the committee were voted to Mr. Francis for the courtesy, but it was stated that the engagements of the members of the committee would greent them from accepting.

The vacancy in the committee from Louisiana was left to the chairman to all. The delegation from that State to deal could not choose a member. A resolution of thanks was voted to the old committee, and the committee adjourned to meet upon the call of the chairman.

Chairman Cortelyou lunched with the committee at the Collseum after the adjournment, and in the evening he was in constant conference with party leaders in his rooms at the Chicago Club. Many suggestions were made to him concerning the selection of an executive committee and other matters concerning the coming campaign. He listened to all, saying that he would give them attention when he relinquished his duties as a member of the Cabinet.

IBY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS-P.M.1 CHICAGO, June 23 .- The swift, sure current of public opinion for the sec-ond time in the history of Republican conventions today resulted in the selection of a national ticket without dissenting vote. Theodore Roosevell for President and Charles W. Fairbanks for Vice-President received every vote in the convention Regardless of the fact that the non months and the other for days, the nt of the choice was acpanied by a resounding demonstration which attested the candidates, popularity. The cheering was led by figures known throughout the breadth of the land, and echoed by a mighty throng of enthusiastic men and radiant women assembled in the Colissum to witness the crowning feature of the convention, as well as the close of the national meeting that marks the semi-centennial of the Republican party in the United States.

the semi-centennial of the Republican party in the United States.

No less than ten thousand men and women participated in the ratification of the party programme, and the consequent roar of cheering and hand-chapping was deafening. The music of the band, stationed high among the girders of the hall, was drowned by the tumultuous unbounded demonstration. Hats were tossed in the air, State emblems were waved, and flags, beautiful, tri-colored, shimmering silken flags, fluttered from every hand as though stirred by a gale. as though stirred by a gale

THE ENTHUSIASM. When former Governor Black of New York made his speech nominating Theodore Roosevelt to succeed himself as President, the delegates in the Reas President, the delegates in the Re-publican convention proved there is no absence of enthusiasm in their ranks when occasion justified an exhibition when occasion justified an exhibition of that quality. For twenty-five minutes the great throng told its approbation of the convention's choice for President. The name of Roosevelt came in every shout. The New York delegates paraded the hall, shouting at the top of their voices. Other delegations joined the procession, and the well-ordered body of half an hour before was a shifting mass, every semblance of organization gone.

When the demonstration was at its height, Chairman Cannon stepped to

He started to yell "Roosevelt, Roosevelt, Roose-velt," repeated over and over again with the system of a college yell. It was taken up by the throng, and the ery "Roosevelt" rolled over the hall in volumes so great and terrific that the screeching of a hundred steam whistles would have been dwarfed in

The delegates in their eagerness to exhibit approval of the nomination accepted every signal for renewed cheer ing. A little colored boy from Geor gia, and later a pretty little girl dressed in a dainty frock of white, were lifted to the platform and they waved flags with as much vigor as their more lusty preceptor.

At the conclusion of every second ing speech the performance was re peated, and the speakers themselves were generally applauded.

When the convention was called to der today the galleries were filled for the first time, and tlers of peo ple were standing in the aisles and back of the rows of seats. It was known that the popular feature of the convention—the making of the nominations—was the programme of the day. The attendance was flattering to the orators to present the names. It was known yesterday that no contes of any character would develop. As surely as President Roosevelt was the choice for the first place on the ticket Senator Fairbanks was awaited as his running mate.

It was 10:30 o'clock when Speaker Cannon called the convention to order. Without preliminaries of any kind, he announced the order of the day, and instructed the secretary to call the roll for nominations for President. By agreement, Alabama, the first State on the roll, yielded to New York. That was the signal for the first outburst of applause. In the midst of the cheer-ing, former Gov. Black made his way to the platform. Speaker Cannon took him up to the front and characteris-tically introduced him to the audience. But the orator chosen to present the name of "Roosevelt" needed no introduction. Delegates proved this, and also that they knew his mission by giving him a rousing reception before permitting him to proceed.

THE CONVENTION AROSE. Ex-Gov. Black entertained his audience by a discussion of party princi ples. He compared Republican standards with those of other parties. With his keen sense of humor and the deep thought displayed in his address, the orator fascinated always and frequently electrified his listeners. He led up to the nomination by gradually defining the type of man best ually defining the type of man best suited for the party color bearer. As he named "Roosevelt" as the best example of that type the convention arose. The New York delegation led in the cheering, which almost immediately spread to every part of the floor, to the galleries and to the crowds which filled the entrances and overflowed into the streets.

After the crowd had yelled itself hoarse, it permitted the band to participate in the demonstration. The leader chose patriotic music, and the familiar words were taken up by the convention and sung with earnestness.

convention and sung with earnestness. The band changed into rag time, and the convention found cheering was better timed to the music. There was no pause in the enthusiasm. Several no pause in the enthusiasm. Severai times Speaker Cannon walked out on the projection to the platform, ex-tending between rows of press seats, and lifted his hands for order. The crowd thought he was leading the ap-plause and paid no attention.

His speech caused another outburst in honor of

KNIGHT WAS "LOUD." Senator Beveridge was recognized by the chair for the purpose of sec-onding the nomination of Mr. Roosevelt for President. He was followed by George A. Knight of California. Mr. Knight had a voice which fairly hundered through the thundered through the hall. He opened his speech by a statement conerning the broad expanse of Repub-

"Geography," he roared, and some wit in the further end of the hall shouted in response, "Not so loud." The convention laughed, and so did Mr. Knight.

The grator from the Golden Gate City had the convention with him from the first. His speech was pointed, and Mr. Knight proved a man of phrases. Of the canal and the reasons actuating the administra-tion in taking the policy it did, Mr. Knight, in conclusion, said of the President: "He wanted to give a job to Uncle Sam. Uncle Sam wanted the job and he took it, and Uncle Sam pelongs to the Union."

The California delegates started parade around the convention hall at the close of Mr. Knight's speech, but Speaker Cannon wanted to get on with the business. Accordingly, as soon as he could make himself heard, he Edwards of Georgia, ex-Gov. Bradley of Kentucky, Joseph B. Cotton of Minnesota and Harry C. Cummings of Maryland. Cummings is one of the colored delegates, and he told of the colored man's services to the Republican party and his interest in President Roosevelt.

The President rose from his chair to receive the affectionate congratulations of those about him. He was the most unconcerned, seemingly, of all. He chatted, in animated manner, a few minutes with Mrs. Roosevelt, Miss Carew and Mr. Loeb, and then accompanied his secretary to the executive offices.

Outward indications that Theodore Roosevelt was about to be chosen unanimously as the standard-bearer of his party absolutely were lacking at the White House in the morning. The President appeared at his desk at the usual hour, and began immediately to transact routine executive business with Secretary Loeb. The important subjects disposed of, he received several visitors, for whom engagements had been made. No members of the Cabinet called during the early hours of the business day. THE POPULAR FEATURE. The nomination of candidates in national convention is the feature th anational convention is the feature that appeals most strongly to the public, and the number of visitors this morning gave ample evidence of that fact. The delegates and alternates, somewhat wearied with the session yesterday, were not as prompt as the spectators in their arrival, and the orchestra rendered about one-half of its day programme while walling for the convention to open. Gov. CALLED TO ORDER.

It was exactly 10:30 o'clock when chairman Cannon, wielding the immense wooden gavel in his left hand, arose, from his high-backed leather chair, and with a resounding whack on the table in front of him commanded the convention to be in order.

Mr. Cannon abandoned the huge gavel and opened a handsome leather casket and secured a small one. With this in his hand, and holding the other up to command stience, he advanced to the front and commanded the delegates to take their seats. The command was at once obeyed.

"The convention will be opened with prayer," he annogunced. The Rev. Thaddeus A. Sniveley, rector of St. Chrysostom's Church, was present, and at Mr. Cannon's suggestion advanced to the front of the platform. As he spread forth his arms to invoke divine blessing, the convention arose. The animated hum of conversation ceased and silence prevailed.

the ordering and settling of all things upon the surest foundations that peace and happiness, truth and justice, religion and piety, may be etsablished among us for all generations.

Finally we pray for all the people of this land, that Thou wouldst direct us, O Lord, in all our doings with Thy most gracious favor and further us with Thy continual help: that in all our works begun, continued, and ended in Thee, we may glorify Thy Holy our works begun, continued, and ended in Thee, we may giorify Thy Holy Name, and finally, by Tny mercy, ob-tain everlasting life through Him who THE PRAYER.

Merciful, Creator and Preserver of all mankind, with profound reverence we acknowledge Thee as the Source of Life and Strength, the Great Invisible One who speaks to us through this wonderful universe of which man so marvelous is but one of Two. We contest the state of the stat As ex-Gov. Black reached the desk of Chairman Cannon he was warmly greeted by that gentleman and escorted down to the front of the platform. Here Chairman Cannon, standing by the side of Mr. Black, in a few words introduced him to the convention. There was a succession of shouts from the convention hall, a chorus of shrieks from the New York delegation, a paroxysm of waving flags, then silence, and Mr. Black commenced his speech on behalf of President Roosevell. He said:

Mr. President and Gentlemen of the Convention: We are here to inaugu-tended, there seems little now to do but to measure up the grain. They are ranging themselves, not for battle, but for harvest. In one column reaching from the Maine woods to the Puget Sound are those people and those States which have stood so long to-gether, that when great emergencies arise the nation turns instinctively to them. In this column, vast and solid, is a majority so overwhelming tha the scattered squads in opposition can hardly raise another army. The enemy hardly raise another army. The enemy has neither guns nor ammunition, and if they had they would use them on each other. Destitute of the weapons of effective warfare, the only evidence of approaching battle is in the tone and number of their bulletins. There is discord among the generals; discord among the soldiers. Each would fight in his own way, but before assaulting his Republican adversaries he would first destroy his own comrades in the adjoining tents. Each believes the weapons chosen by the other are not his Hepublican adversaries he would first destroy his own comrades in the adjoining tents. Each believes the weapons chosen by the other are not only wicked, but fatal to the holder. That is true.

This is the only war of modern times where the boomerang has been substituted for the gun. Whatever fatalities may occur, however, among the discordant hosts now moving on St. Louis, no harm will come this fail to the American people. There will be no opposition sufficient to raise a conflict. There will be hardly enough for competition. There are no Democratic plans for the conduct of the fail campaign. Their zeal is chiefly centered in discussion as to what Thomas Jefferson would do if he were living. He is not living, and but few of his descendants are among the Democratic reminants of today. Whatever of patriotism or wisdom emanated from that distinguished man is now represented in this convention.

It is a sad day for any party when its only means of solving living issues is by guessing at the possible attitude of a statesman who is dead. This condition leaves that party always a beginner and makes every question new. The Democratic party has seldom tried a problem on its own account, and when it has, its blunders have been its only monuments, its courage is remembered only in regret. As long as these things are recalled that party may serve as ballast, but it will never steer the ship.

RECEPTION TO FAIRBANDS.

INDIANAPOLIS, June 22.—Meetings were held tonight at the Columbia and Marion Clubs for the purpose of arranging for a public reception to Senator Fairbanks, Republican Vice-Presidential nominee, on his return from Chicago. At a conference of prominent Republicans, it was learned that it was he Senator's wish that the reception be informal and non-partisan.

LONDON'S COMMENT. LONDON, June 24.—Few of the morning papers comment on the nomination of Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Fairbanks, although all of them print long accounts of the proceedings. The editorials treat of the result as a foresone conclusion.

torials treat of the result as a foregene conclusion.

The Morning Post says that if Senator Fairbanks adds little to the strength of the party ticket, he cannot be said to detract from it. The selection of Mr. Fairbanks, the paper says, as a running mate of Roosevelt, who preferred another, may be regarded flot as a revolt against Roosevelt, but as a hint from the delegates from the

UMBRELLAS AND TOTEM POLES. UMBRELLAS AND TOTEM POLES.
The Indiana delegation aprung open umbrellas of red, white and blue, bearing portraits of Roosevelt and Fairbanks, the Alaskan totem poles were held aloft and thousands of flags waved in a wild sweep of color.

The New York delegation, occupying a place immediately in front, started out on a marching tour of the hall. Meanwhile the demonstration showed no signs of spending itself; five, six and seven minutes it continued. There was not the slightest diminution in the volume of sound.

CALAFORNIA'S STROKE.

was not the singulest diminution in the volume of sound.

CALIFORNIA'S STROKE.

When the applause had continued almost seven minutes, it was given a new impetus by Chairman Cannon, who walked once more to the front carrying his large banner. A little girl, clad in white, was lifted on the shoulders of some California delegates, and the first sound of her childlish treble was the signal for another outburst.

A delegate requested Chairman Cannon to loan him the large flag he had carried, and with a smile the chairman handed it down. Around the hall it went, followed by a long line of shouting delegates.

California, with its great banner of purple, white and gold, came marching down the center asise, followed by Senators, members of Congress and others prominent in the life of the nation trooping along behind, shouting, laughing and cheering. The New York delegation, catching sight of Henry C. Payne on the platform, paid him a brief and especial tribute, and then returned once more to the cheering of the candidate, shouting "Roosevelt," "Roosevelt," "New York," over and over again.

A small boy, James Calun of Georgia, with long, curling halr, was holsted upon the platform, and waved in frantic fashion a small national flag. Louise Roberts, the young girl who had created enthusiasm in the California delegation, was next carried up and down on the shoulders of a stal-wart delegate from Indiana. She created a new furore of enthusiasm as the tossed her flag 'o and fro.

SECONDED BY BEVERIDGE.

Gentlemen of the Convention: One a guarantee of peace.

The American people will elect him because, in a word, they know that he does things the people want done; does things, not merely discusses them—does things only after discussing them—but does things; and does only those things the people would have him do. This is characteristically American; for wherever he is, the American is he who achieves.

On every question all men know where he stands. Americans, frank themselves, demand frankness in their servants. Uncertainty is the death of business. The people can always get along if they know where they are and whither they are going.

His past is his proof. Every great measure of his administration was so wise that, enthusiastically sustained by his own party, it won votes even from the opposition.

Bo you name Cuban reciprocity?

wise that, enthusiastically sustained by his own party, it won votes even from the opposition.

Do you name Cuban reciprocity? The opposition resisted and then opposition votes helped to ratify it.

Do you name corporate legislation? The opposition resisted and then opposition votes helped to enact it.

Do you name the canal—that largest work of centuries, the eternal wedding of oceans, shrinkine the circumference of the globe, makine distant peoples neighbors, advancing forever civilisation all around the world? This historic undertaking in the interest of all the race, planned by American statesmanship, to be wrought by American hands, to stand through the ages protected by the American flag; this vast achievement which will endure when our day shall have become ancient, and which alone is enough to make the name of Theodore Roosevelt illustrious through all time—this fuifillment of the republic's dream accomplished by Republican effort, finally received votes even from an opposition that had tried to thwart it.

Of what measure of Theodore Roosevelt's administration does the opposition dare even to propose the repeal? And when has the record of any President won greater approval?

LOVED AS A MAN.

LOVED AS A MAN.

And so the people trust him as a statesman. Better than that, they love him as a man. He wins admiration in vain who wins not affection also. In the American home—that temple of happiness and virtue where dwell the wives and mothers of the republic, cherishing the beautiful in life and guarding the morality of the nation—in the American home the name of Theodore Roosevelt is not only honored, but beloved. And that is a greater triumph than the victory of battlefields, greater credit than successful states—manship, greater honor than the Presidency itself would be without it. Life holds no reward so noble as the confi-

KNIGHT TO THE FRONT. the nomination, Chairman Cannon announced that George A. Knight of California would second the nomination. The California delegation showed that it was prepared for the occasion. The old stagecoach long-drawn yell "Wahoo!" was echeed through the hall and California's banner, followed by a huge wreath of flowers, was borne through the hall as Mr. Knight was proceeding to the platform.

Mr. Knight was introduced by Chairman Cannon. He has a voice which penetrated to the farthest recesses of the hall and rolled back in echoes from the iron roof. As he began a voice from the far end shouted "Not so loud!" This was a touch which the convention appreciated, and gave itself up to a hearty laugh.

CALIFORNIA'S KNIGHT.

SECONDS POPULAR CHAMPION. Gentlemen of the Convention: Geography has but little to do with the sentiment and enthusiasm that is today apparent in favor of the one who is to be given all the honors and duties of an elected President of the United States of America. However, ties of an elected President of the Unites States of America. However, the Pacific Slope and the islands (those ocean buoys of commerce moored in the drowsy tropical sea) send to this convention words of confident greeting, with discreet assurance that your judgment will be indorsed by the American voter and our country continue its wonderful progress under Republican success.

The time is ripe for brightening up Americanism. to teach with renewed vigor the principles of individual liberty or which the minute men of the Revolution-fought; the Lincoln liberty, an individual liberty for the man, not a black man alone, any man, all men; the right of labor in the exercise of freedom unmolested and to be paid for his individual toil and with it build his cottage home.

From the press, the pulpit and the street, let the true history of our country be known, that the young men and women of America and many old ones may know what a price has been paid for the liberty, peace and union they enjoy through the devoted patriotism of our silent heroes of the past. Deprivation and sacrifice already endured for many years before the old bell in the Statehouse was given the voice to speak the glorious sentiment of the age and proclaim liberty throughout all the land, and they were made the instruments by which the principles productive of our national grandeur were set land, and they were made the instruments by which the principles productive of our national grandeur were set land, and they were made the instruments by which the principles productive of our national grandeur were set as jewels in our public's coronet. What we prayed for, fought for, bled for and ided for we want cared for.

Telegraph the world that the Renub maker. "Cowardice, duplicity and dishonesty are not impulsive." shouted Mr. Knight. "Theodore Roosevelt is impulsive." "He hypnotizes obstacles." "Wahoo," was then shouted from the California delegation, and the convention took up the cry, amid laughing applause.

Again Mr. Knight touched a responsive chord, when he exclaimed of the beginning of the canal: "Theodore Roosevelt gave Uncle Sam a job. Uncle Sam wanted it and he took it, and Uncle Sam wanted it and he took it, and Uncle Sam wanted it and he took it, and uncle Sam belongs to the Union, too," Mr. Knight was surrounded by an enthusiastic throng as he left the platform, Senator Scott of West Virginia throwing his arms around him and hugging him enthusiastically.

The California delegation, with a great gold banner and a cornet player of uncertain powers, who took libertles with "A Hot Time in the Old Town Tionight," started on a brief parade, but it was soon over, and Chairman Cannon announced the next speaker as "Mr. Stillwell of Georgia." There were loud cries of "Edwards," and Mr. Cannon was informed that the name of the speaker was Harry Stillwell and both are good names."

Mr. Edwards, who is a man of slight physique, is not gifted with a pauetrating voice, like those of ex-Gov. Black Senator Beveridge and Mr. Knight, and for this rerson he was unable to command the absorbing attention that had been given to those who spoke before him. His speech was eminently satisfactory, however, to those within range of his voice, and he was frequently interrupted by applause.

HARRY STILWELL EDWARDS.

HARRY STILWELL EDWARDS. GEORGIA SECONDS ROOSEVELT.

GEORGIA SECONDS ROOSEVELT.

Edwards said:

It is eminently fit and proper that a Georgian should on this occasion second the eloquent speaker from New York, that the voice of the motherland should blend with the voice of the fatherland to declare that the destinies of America shall for four years more be entrusted to the great son born of the union of the two empire States.

I do not belittle the influence of a father when I say that if the iron in a son's nature be derived from him, the gold is coined from the heart of the mother whose lap has cradled him. And because I believe this, because the lesson at the mother's knee is the seed that sends a stalk toward heaven and opens far up its auxiliary blossoms in the morning light, because the lofty it deals of inandood are rooted deeper than youth, because that which a man instinctively would be has been dreamed for him in advance by a mother. I

President relies for the advancement and development of the 7,000,000 people who are there working out their destinies. Two judges of first instance, one a Democrat and one a Republican, and both from Georgia, are there by his appointment to administer the laws. In the army there and here in the navy and in all the divisions of the civil government southern men have felt the friendly touch of his hand. The character of these appointments and the whole policy give the lie to those designing knaves who charge him with stirring up strife between races and arraying section against section. It am proud of your great deeds; for you are my people. This was his greeting to a Southern audience, and no honest man doubts that he meant it.

The South shares in the magnificent prosperity which our great country has achieved under the Republican party. Especially has she felt the beneficent effect of your policies during the last eight years; and the hardest fact your opponents have to contend with is the fact that your financial policy has been tested and found to be sound and efficient. They have sufficed for eight years at least, and the Democratic partisan who has twice in that time been led captive behind the silver car of Bryan must be optimistic beyond expression if he believes that the country will suffer alarm over the prospect of four years more of prosperity.

The South deals in cotton goods, cotton-seed products, coal, fron, oil and lumber, and business enterprises in connection with these and other industries have increased and multiplied. Traveling from Washington to Macon one is never off a first-class railroad nor long, out of sight of the smoke of a mill. The people who conduct these and kindred enterprises, who are raising cotton at from 19 to 15 cents a pound, wheat at from 75 cents to 11 per bushel, whose lond are rapidly increasing in value, are not alarmed over the prospect of another Republican victory under Roosevelt. They are not alarmed over the digging of a canal at Panama that will give them direc months to twelve.

The prosperity of the South is wrapped up in the policies of the Republican party, and the Southern people are beginning to realize it. Southern business sentiment indicates an increasing distrust of the policies of the Demo-

NOMINATE FAIRBANKS FOR VICE-PRESIDENT.

Gentlemen of the Convention: The once we have seen the claims of leadership swallowed up in contention and strife.

We have the honor to belong to a convention whose constituency in every State and Territory and in the islands of the sea has done its thinking by quiet firesides, undisturbed by clamor of any sort, and has simplified our responsibilities by the unmistakable terms of the credentials which we hold at their hands.

At intervals of four years, I followed the banner of James G. Blaime through the streets of our convention cities from Cincinnati to Minneapolis, and did my full share to see that nobody got any more applause than the great popular leader who had captured my enthusiasm long before I was old enough to vote. Not even his defeat served to diminish the hold which our champion had upon the hearts of those who followed him, and it has required a good deal of experience to enable them to understand the lesson of his defeat. Other conventions have met to settle the fate of rival chieftains; we meet to record the judgment of the Republican millions of the United States.

They have based their opinion upon the facts of the case. They know how to measure the height and depth of things better even than Prof. Bryce when he deals with the superlatives which find their way into all well-regulated banquets after midnight. They have not forgotten the grave of Lincoln, which has become a shrine of pligrimage of the human race. They remember still the day when the canon of Westminster opened the doors of that venerable monument to admit the name of the silent American soldier into the household of English-spoken fame.

reputation with the industrial and commercial miracle, which opened the new century, is gone, and within the borders of the same State lies all that is mortal of Thomas B. Reed, who put an end to anarchy in the American House of Representatives. Dear Uncle Mark Hanna, whose face has looked down with the benediction of an old friend upon our deliberations, we shall see no more; within the past few days we buried Matthew Stanley Quay in the bosom of the commonwealth which we loved, and which, in spite of the malice and calumny, which pursued him while he lived, never falled in its affectionate confidence in him, while to over the whole four years has hung the shadow of the national affiction which left the American people in sackcloth and ashes.

THE CALL TO FAIRBANKS.

We stand at the beginning of the new

Now, my friends, while we present the positive, the convention which meets on the 6th of July presents that element hitherto unknown in American

DOING THREE THINGS WELL.

Gov. Pennypacker said:

Pennsylvania may well claim to be the leader among Republican States. The principles which are embodied in the platform of the party, as we have adopted it, are the result of the teachings of her scholars and statesmen. Her majorities for the mominees of that party are greater and more certain than those of any other State. She alone of all the States since the election of Abraham Lincoln, in 1860, has never given an electoral vote against a candidate of the Republican party for the Presidency. She is unselfish in her devotion. During the period of half a century that has gone, no son of hers has been either President. She has been satisfied, like the Earl of Warwick, to be the maker of kings. She has been content that you should have regard to the success of the party and the welfare of the country, rather than to the personal interest of her citizens.

She well remembers that when her own Senator who did so much for the Republican party, and whose wise counsels, alas, are missing today, bore a commission to Washington, he had no more sincere supporter than the able and distinguished statesmang, who then, as he does now, represented Indiana in the United States Senate. Pennsylvania, with the approval of her judgment and with glad anticipation of victory in her heart, following a leader like the chevaller of France, "without fear and without reproach," seconds the nomination for the Vice-Presidency of Charles Fairbanks of Indiana.

By this time the hall was thinning out. Great gaps of empty seats appeared in the galleries that all day had been packed. A hum of conversation pervaded the hall, and there were apparent the symptoms of near adjournment.

In introducing Senator Carter of Montana, Speaker Cannon said: "I have introduced to you four of a skind. Strange to relate, here's a fifth ace—Tom Carter of Montana."

The whole convention laughed. Senator Carter spoke briedly, but got a big share of applause.

SENATOR CARTER

"It will at once be consoling and re-assuring to you for me to announce that I do not rise to make a speech, but to make a deliberate announce-ment. You will remember how, eight years ago, the intermountain country, heretofore solidly Republican, became tempest-tossed and discredited. It will be remembered with regret that, since 1892, Republican votes in the Rocky Mountain country have been few and far between. I am here today to say to you that from the Canadian line to the southern line of Colorado, and from the Missouri River to the Pacific-

NO AMERICAN
AND ARTISTS.

I asked of Prof. Iver. as among the canvases, "I saked of Prof. I saked of Pr uted by seventeen different nations, and form far and away the grandest display of contemporaneous art ever seen in America.

I enjoyed the privilege of a private view some days before the opening in the companionship of the well-known London art critic, Herbert Baker, and under the guidance of Prof. Halsey C. Ives, the chief of the Art Department of the Exposition, and of his second-incommand, Charles M. Kurts. Structurally the gaileries are among the finest in the world, space, air, and light, the three great desiderata, all being perfect. The next point that will strike the visitor is the exquisite harmony everywhere manifested. With supreme care, patience, and judgment every picture to be hung has been considered with special regard to effective and artistic grouping. So each room is in itself a fine composition of colors, there is no note of discord, every canvas is helped by its neighbors. Nor is there the crowding, or the "skying," that so often mar a picture gallery. The whole effect is delightful—restful and satisfying from every sense of completeness. The art of the art exhibitor has never been more successfully demonstrated.

The plan of the St. Louis management has been to restrict the international display to works of the past decade, thus affording the chance of surveying contemporary art as a whole of instituting comparisions, and of gaining a clew as to present progressiveness. Each artist's place of showing is determined strictly by place of birth, so we find the United States section enriched by the paintings of a number of men who are true Americans, although long residence in Europe has almost merged their nationality in the lands of their adoption. The result has been to marshal, more representatively than has ever before been done, the artistic achievements of America. We have paintings of Whistler, Abbey, Sargeant, Porter, Tryon, Dewins, Miss Beau, W. Chase, the late Henry Chase, Inness, Wyant, John W. Alexander, Homer Martin, Winslow Homer, Eastman Johnson, Swain Gifford, De Forest Brush, George Wetherbee, Horatio Walker, Henre B. Snell, Harry Watrous, Carroll Beckwith and Emil Carlsen, together with many others less widely known to fame. The sculptors represented include Augustus St. Gaudens, Paul W. Bartlett, Daniel C. French, J. Q. A. Ward, Hermon A. MacNell, A. Phimister Proctor, Charles Niehaus, John J. Boyle and Churles (Graffy, Then there are cases of gold and silver plate, of jeweiry and set gems of pottery, of porcelain, glass, enamel work on metals, artistic leather work, masterpleces of bookbinding, all showing in a striking manner how the United States is advancing rapidly into the domain of applied arts, and therein sometimes treading for herself paths that are both new and full of promise. Altogether there are 3600 pleces of art work shown, of which 563 are oil paintings.

of the portrait of the redoubtable Dowager Empress of China, painted by Miss K. Carl, which occupies the place of honor in one of the main salona. The small room devoted exclusively to painting by Whistler will also attract much attention.

Finally, I would ask visitors not to miss a canvas from the brush of a Californian painter, Charles Rollo Peters.
It is entitled "After the Gringo Came."
And what a story may be read into the picture!—the old deserted Mexican hut, the cold, impassionless moonlight, the riotous and encroaching vegetation that will soon smother everything, the sense of utter silence and solitude, yet with the subtle impression of haunting memories of bygone days, when quiet content reigned here and happy little children sleen within. I may not have read the tale aright, but it is the version to my thinking, and all who pause to admire may fashion others for themselves. "There is no better piece of work in the whole exposition. It is perfect in drawing, in composition, and in color values. The rendition of the moonlight, with the shadows showing scarcely reflected light, could not be finer." I put these sentences under inverted commas; the judgment is not mine, but came from one who knows What the snake might has only be conjectured but is ence of mind of a passens Kittanning, who knew when he saw them and ryoung man's danger. Retail meat men have started a movement to close all-markets in the city on Sundays and at 6.39 o'clock on week-day evenings, except Saturdays, when the closing hour is fixed at 10 o'clock. Already 107 markets have agreed to keep these hours. Only about twenty shops, mostly conducted by union butchers who lost their jobs in the silly and woefully-unsuccessful strike last summer, have refused to grant shorter hours to the men in their employ. The retail butchers would not be buildozed into giving shorter hours, for that would only mean that these conressions would have been followed by other demands, unreasonable and impossible to perform without turning the entire management of their markets over to the control of union dictators. But now that the butchers' union has been thoroughly whitped; in fact, almost totally annihilated, the proprietors, without any pressure whatever being brought to bear, have voluntarily cut down the number of hours required from their employés.

State's Evidence.

Gerald Schofield, only 17 years of age, and the youngest of a quartette of burglars, whom the police recently rounded up, broke the unwritten code of all grades of criminals, and trined States' evidence against his companions. Schofield, and one other member of the gang, have been to the Superior Court, and it was through his confession that "Curiey" Crest and Peter Lockridge were captured by the detectives. Schofield—has told the story of their exploits around the city for several weeks past. He described one burglary in detail, saying: "We all went to the store of H. Kallwoda about midnight and made an effort to get in through the back door. We cut the string but falled to get in. Then we went around to the front door and ganed an entrance after bursting it in. Crest went in 'to explore and, shortly after we all followed, filling our pockets with razors and knives. The plunder was afterward sold by Lockridge, who returned to us with it.78, which we divided." The two defendants were held to answer in the Susetor Court. Schofield will prob-

STREET RUINED BY B. BLACKSTONE CO. THE TREE KILLERS

> Destruction of Beautiful Row of Grevillas on Union Avenue - Moving of Curb Line Four Inches Might Have Averted the Havoc.

W HOLESALE tree murder was trees. He said he would if he could.

Committed from Seventh to We do not know their fate yet.

Eighth streets, on Union avenue,

This is our Arbor Day. The city one to work to make a great fuss

The magnificent grevillas which used

They were sacrificed to make way for a dinky cement curb which might just as well have been pisted far enough out to have saved the trees. Four inches' change in the curb line would have been enough. In any ordinary affair of life the change mighthave been made for the sake of these beautiful ornaments to the city.

There is something, however, pecu-

There is something however, peculiarly and mysteriously sacred about a curb-stone line. Though little children suffer and fair women be plunged down the sewer-holes and strong men down the sewer-holes and strong men be torn limb from limb, the lihe of every old cement curb must and shall be preserved.

be preserved.

That curb line had to be just there; and the trees were chopped down.

A woman who no longer lives in that neighborhood, but who saw those beautiful trees planted nearly twenty years ago, happened to come along the street yesterday. When she came suddenly around a corner and saw the havoe wrought, she burst out crying.

Later, she went down to the City Hall and tried to save the rest of the trees. It was too late, as the grade line had been established.

The people in front of whose places the trees stood are sick with grief over the tree slaughter.

That block, between Seventh and Eighth streets, has been one of the prettiest in the city. Now it looks like a skinned rabbit.

The houses which yesterday morning looked out on the handsome minature forest—onto a street with these trees nodding and bowing at each other across the way—now have a clear and comprehensive view of the back door of a grocery store.

One of the sufferers, however, is the grocer, himself. His storeroom was

Most of the neighbors knew nothing of it until they awoke yesterday and found their trees going.

A. F. Jones, who has the grocery store at the corner of Seventh street and Union avenue, heard someone using a pick-ax and went out to find one of his precious pepper trees shuddering under the blows of the tree assassin. Being a wise man and philosopher, Mr. Jones did not protest, but turned around and went back into his store in silence. Because he was losing his trees was no reason to his mind why he should also sacrifice his breath in useless effort.

Mr. Jones also owns the next house to the store, where the grevilla trees were slaughtered.

"I have watched over those trees for years," said Mr. Jones. "This street is extra wide, anyhow, and might just as well have been four inches narrower to have saved those magnificent trees. Just a little while ago some official came swooping down on me and told me I had to either cut off all the foliage or have them sprayed. I had all the foliage cut off, and have been watching solicitously as the green came out again. No, sir; I am not going to plant any more trees. I have had enough of this tree business. The city seems to like this better as a desert."

After the quickest trip on record between those ports the British steamer Tottenham, Capt. T. B. Peters, arrived at Port Los Angeles yesterday morn-ing from Moji, Japan. She was twenty-two and one-half days on the passage. She brings a cargo of black diamonds.
"At midnight as I was getting away from the coast of Japan," said Capt.

Mrs. Simpson watched the slaughter going on with shivers of anticipation yesterday, "We are simply sick over it." she said. "We had such a pretty view from our front porch—those beautiful waving trees. Now we have a fine opportunity to meditate on the back door of Mr. Jones's grocery store.

The barefoot burglar is still plying his silent but profitable vocation.

H. B. Thomas of No. 535 South Flower street, reported to the police yesterday that his house had been entered during the morning between midning than 6 o'clock, and a quantity of valuables secured by some member of the quiet working profession, whose methods, the detectives believe, are of the shoefess marauder. He entered the room where Thomas and his wife slept, and removing a stand drawer, carried it with him to the bath-room, where he pocketed the contents. There was no evidence of his having gained a forcible entrance, and he is thought to have opened the front door by using skeleton keys.

His booty includes the following articles: Two small diamond rings, one turquoise ring, one gold locket, three silver bracelets, one belt buckle and three gold shirt studs. The detectives are without a clew.

Mr. Thomas firmly believes that he and his wife were victims of chloroform or some other drug, and that the anaesthesia was skillfully administered. He stated yesterday thas both he and Mrs. Thomas experienced strange sensations upon awakening, and it was several hours before they

These jobbers regard their secretary as sugar coated.

But the jobbers are too old birds to be trapped with beet sugar balt. "Should the merchants of Los Angeles succeed in their efforts to get government aid in developing the Imperial country through retaining Servator Bard in his present position, they can afford to lose their entire Arisona trade, and still increase their business one-half."

This sentiment, expressed yesterday afternoon by a vice-president of the jobbers' association, is a good index of the way the local jobbers feel about the matter.

"We are, of course, interested in Arizona," said another official of the local association, "but we are more vitally interested in the Imperial country. It is closer home."

THREATENING LETTERS.

THREATENING LETTERS.

The F. W. Braun Company has been made a target for missiles fired by half a dozen Arizona kickers. "Our first communication came last Saturday," said Mr. Braun yesterday afternoon. "It was from Tucson. Jince that time we have received five others, Some are advisory, others are threatening. From the way in which they are scattered over the Territory it would appear that all were sent at the same time, at the request of some organized head. These are the first communications that we have received since the matter was up before the United States Senate.

"We have a large clientage in Arizona and naturally we desire to give satisfaction to our custopers. But as far as the local jobbers' association, is concerned, it is not in politica, it was not organized for the purpose. Furthermore, no complaints have been made to the association either of loss of trade in Arizona or of threatened loss. The matter of the communications was discussed yesterday afternoon at a meeting of the Executive Committee of the association, but no action was taken. Neither is any action contemplated. Inquiry among merchants along Los. Angeles street revealed the fact that the hammer throwing had proceeded most systematically. The Arisona end of the combination had evidently made concerted action. A stove and hardware company exhibited a telegram from a Tucson customer. It read: "Bard was the enemy of Arisona, Knock him and you make friends here."

intendent Mr. Willard came back to jobbers' association business long enough to give the assurance that the association bud no preference in the Senatorial contest, and that it would be against its bylaws to take political action of any kind.

Then he unbent long enough to deny that he had accepted a lieutenancy in the Oxnard militia, or that he had been retained to help conduct an anti-Bard campaign. He represented the jobbers' association in its official co-pacity and it was his duty to see that it was kept out of politics. As for the preferences of the individual members, that was a private matter and could not be taken into consideration by the association.

Los Angeles wholesalers appear to be pretty thoroughly convinced that any reference to the political situation-in Arizona at the present time is likely to be prejudicial to their business. They realize that there are two factions in the Territory and that fust now they are hearing only one side to the story.

This suit, which has been brewing

This suit, which has been brewing for four months, is the outgrowth of the refusal of the Los Angeles Railway Company to honor police stars for any person whose name does not appear in the books of the City Auditor, as being regularly connected with the police department.

Blackmar has been appointed by the Police Commission as a "regular" policeman. He has been sworn in and wears police star No. 141. The specific offense charged in the complaint is that a conductor of the Los Angeles Railway Company, one day three weeks ago refused to honor the star and at the corner of First and Olive streets ejected Blackmar from a Westlake car.

When Blackmar was first refused transportation on his star he sent a communication to the Council complaining of the action of the railway company. This communication was referred to the City Attorney and Blackmar says that his actions since that time have been directed by the city's legal department.

Interest centers about the case for the reason that the decision in this suit will affect the status of more than a hundred city employés. If the railway companies can be forced to carry Blackmar on his star then the others can enjoy the same privilege. As these employés receive at least $10 a month each, either in the way of additional salary or on requisition, compelling the street railways to honor their police stars would mean a saving of at least $100 a month to the city, and a corresponding loss to the railway companies.

Mr. Blackmar said last night that he is a regular police officer, as are his two deputies, and that he is under the direction of the Chief of Police. "We often make arresta," he went on, "for misdemeanor offenses that do not come under the jurisdiction of our department. The chief difference between my duties and those of a uniformed patrolman, is that I do not walk a beat. I am on the pay roll the same as the other officers, only I am paid from another department. Under the terms of its franchise, the railway company is bound to honor my star."

LICENSE TANGLE.

How old is Ann was a kindergarten amendment and repeal of the hotel and lodging-house license. Members of the Council Finance Committee yesterday sypent most of the afternoon trying to bring order out of chaos, then they passed the whole matter up to the legal department.

In the meantime hotel and lodging-house keepers are taking to the woods to avoid the Police Court. To conduct a lodging-house without paying a license is a misdemandr offense, punishto avoid the Police Court. To conduct a lodging-house without paying a license is a misdemanor offense, punishable with fine and imprisonement in the City Jail. Yesterday afternoon a delegation of landlords went before the Finance Committee and said that they were not looking for free board and lodging at the city's expense, but that they did not know who or what to pay. Reversible decisions are responsible for the license snarl.

A year ago the Council passed an ordinance licensing lodging-houses and hotels according to the number of rooms rented or for rent. A number of landlords claimed the license was unjust and refused to pay.

Civil suit was brought by the city and the lower court decided against the landlords. They appealed the case to the Superior Court. Judge Oster of San Bernardino, sitting in Department Three, reversed the decision of the lower court. He held that inasmuch as rooms in one part of the city rent for much more than in another part, a flat rate is not equitable. He held that the only license that would apply would be one based on the gross income.

The Finance Committee then passed another ordinance fixing a license on hotels and rooming-houses based on the income from the rooms actually rented.

The Hence collector notified the landlords that they must submit statements of the business done.

In the meantime a case similar to the one brought in the superior court here was appealed from a Superior Court in the northern part of the State to the Supreme Court. A decision has just been handed down in that case which reverses Judge Oster and legalizes the license based on the number of rooms.

Now the landlords want to know which ordinance is in effect here. City Tax Collector Johnson has asked that he be permitted to collect the license according to the number of rooms. He says that it is easy for an inspector to determine how many rooms are in a building, but that the revenue ilcense provision is likely to drive some of his best men to strong drink.

Superintendent Mulholland of the city water department last night presented statistical tables before a joint meeting of the Finance Committee and the Board of Public Works, showing that in order to conserve the water supply the city must abandon and discard theold sprinkling cars, and lay dust on the streets with oil.

Mr. Mulholland said that there would be sufficient water this year for both street sprinkling and domestic purposes, but he expressed doubts about the future, especially if the city's present rapid growth is to continue.

For three hours the Councilmen considered Superintendent Mulholland's report in executive session. After it was over all were agreed on the question of oiling the streets, but there was a difference of opinion as to details of the plan. That was last March, and Mrs. Fargher would be in Cleveland yet if she had waited for her husband to join her. She avers that he saw her off, and then settled to single blessedness in Los Angeles.

Now the wife is on the warpath. Yesterday she began suit against her husband for alimony. She says that he played a trick upon her when he helped her go East, and that when she realized that he did not intend to join her, she came back to this city. She arrived in June, and gave her husband a surprise, when she walked in where he was. He is an employé of the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Company. She made him accompany her to where he was boarding with Mrs. Nellie Durand at No. 353 South Flower street.

At her husband's abiding place Mrs. Fargher says that she begged and then demanded that she be allowed to make her home with him, but he negatived that proposition, and said he didn't want her about him. He also informed her, she says, that he didn't have to support her, and, after saying a lot of other sweet things, he ordered her out of the house.

Before the wife turned her back on her husband she inquired for her boy and both Mrs. Durand and Fargher told her that they really didn't know where the child was, and with that she had to be content. But she doubted the statement made, and, in wandering about in the immediate neighborhood, she discovered her boy playing. The mother gathered her son to her arms dirty and poorly clothed, as she avers he was, and took him with her to a friend's house. Since then this friend has kept the boy.

The county fathers wanted to know, first, whether in cases where yacancies in township offices have been filled by appointment subsequent to the last general election, the appointees are a hold office only until the general election of 1904 or for the remainder of the expired term. Secondly, where the Legislature of 1903 created additional township offices, which were filled by the Board of Supervisors, are such appointees governed by the same ruies to length of term as where appointments have been made to fill vacancies strictly understood as such.

Chief Denuty James points out that the Supreme Court has interpreted the phrase "next general election" to mean the next one at which that particular office is voted for, and he consequently answers the first question affirmatively. With regard to the second he gives the opinion that the new offices created became vacant immediately upon their creation without an occupant, and the same ruie as to the length of terms of the appointees in such case would apply as in cases of the appointees to office which were in existence prior to the last election, and which may have become vacant through resignation or otherwise.

For the reasons thus indicated Mr. James is of the opinion that no township officers can be voted upon at the general election to be held next November.

he lost Dugdale, and such a strong opposition has grown up grainst Lucas that he will be retired after this year and this step will be the beginning of the end.

Lucas has gone so far in his campaign of rule or ruin as to gain the enmity of the newspapers in the Northwest, and this will be enough to fix him. In addition he are threatened to take away the franchise of Salt Lake City because the fans of that city went after a bad umpire named Jones that Lucas had working there. Jones's decisions were so wonderfully rotten that the angry fans chased him off the grounds during a free fight in which players, policemen and spectators were badly mixed. The whole thing started because when a batsman struck at a ball and missed it Jones called "ball." Pitcher Elmer Meredith couldn't stand this, and from that time on everything was stirring.

Jones was highly indignant, and Lucas now threatens to take the franchise away from Salt Lake. Enemies are springing up in every town, and such dissension will soon disrupt the league.

FRIENDS' ANNUAL MEETING. WHITTIER, June 23, 1904.-The pres ace of a large number of earnest nurch workers, devotional meetings filled with fervor and business meetings conducted with harmony, continue to characterize the sessions of the Friends yearly meeting, now in progress here. This forenoon the statistical report from the subordinate meetings was read, and afterward was the subject of a general discussion.

The report showed that there are at the present time 2046 Friends identi-fied with the various districts or "meetings," as they are designated in meetings," as they are designated in Quaker parlance. Of this number 1422 are adults and 624 are under age. Last year's report showed a total of 1813 members in the State, Pasadena quarterly meeting, which comprises songthey or six churches, has the banner this year, its 855 members giving it an advantage over the Whittier quarterly meeting of thirty-three members. Of all the individual churches the local one is the strongest in numbers, the report showing it to have 165 households, with 394 adults and 195 children. Berkeley quarterly meeting, the remaining group of churches under the jurisdiction of this yearly meeting, has 369 members.

A feature of the former session was the impassioned plea of Rev. Levi Mills of Whittier for a higher plane of life.

Formerly the boats have been sent first down to a mark off Long Beach, with the second leg to the breakwater and the third leg home to the starting point; but in case of a north or south breeze this course might have a leading wind all round it.

It is therefore now announced for the first time that the course will be twelve miles long, to be salled twice around an equilateral triangle measuring four and one-half miles, as follows: From the starting point of the clubhouse at Terminal Island (Pacific side) to a mark anchored and lying about east by south, one and one-half miles; thence to the bell buoy near Dead Man's Island, one and one-half miles; thence to a finish at the starting point, four and a half miles; this course to be salled twice, making in all, nine miles.

At the time of his father's death, some fourteen years ago, no trace of him could be found. The last that had been heard of him was that he had been part owner of a ranch in Minnesota about four years previously, that is to say. In 1886. Indeed, for long after his return to Ireland, and his es-tablishment in his ancestral home at tablishment in his ancestral home at Castlemartyr, he used to go in for wood chopping on an extensive scale, getting rid in this manner of his superabundant energy, and his lazy cottagers reaping the benefit of his violent exertions. He was at one time after his return reported to be engaged to an American woman, a Mrs. arancis Beddy, of Philadelphia, but eventually married a Miss Thompson, of Surrey, by whom he has several children, the eldest of whom bears the title of Viscount Boyle, Boyle being likewise his patronymic, as it is that of the earls of Cork.

The Earl of Shannon is the chief of a younger branch of the family of which Lord Cork is the head, and it is his coat-of-arms which is emblazoned on the head of the menu cards and of the notepaper of the Cariton Hotel, where so many Americans stay, and which commemorates Lord Shannon's ancestor, Lord Carlton, Minister of State to Queen Anne and the creator of Carlton House, afterward the residence of King George IV as Re-necessary to dispose of the new acquisition.

About a week ago someone left a portable house in a vacant lot near seventeenth and Chicago streets and residents in that locality, fearful of the movements of two men seen to go in and out of the structure, complained to the police and requested that the house be removed. Accordingly Sunday morning Officers Wilson, Vanous and Wooldrige attached the wagon to the end of the patrol wagon and took it to the Police Station. An inspection of the house showed that it was fitted up for light housekeeping, but further than the marking of some unwrapped laundry there was nothing to show to whom the structure belonged. The laundry bore the name of D. O Clark, and more or less mystery clustered around the strange vehicle.

On the latter point there has been considerable doubt. A. Lester Best, of the crew of the Marie, and others were under the impression that there would be no time allowance given, and that each craft would be understood to sail at the top limit of her class, It seems that the Marie measures a portion of a racing foot less than the Mischief and the people of the former boat naturally wish to get all that should come to them. The above announcement will, however, clear away all doubts.

Dressing the Baby.

We have dressed the jackets of evil schoolboys, dressed the shrubbery and trees on our home place, (ad) dressed debating societies in the rural precincts, but until recently we never undertook to dress the baby. Why, bless your chin whiskers, we would as 'leave' try to decipher ancient curonicles on the Babyionish tablets! And that little eye of our eye and chin of our chin looking up at us as if he pitied us, or thought we were getting him ready for hanging. Buttons, hooks, pins! Pins, hooks, buttons! Armholes and bands, and safety pins, gee! Ain't it fun to dress the baby. It's like an ice cream picnic in a cold rainstorm. If we were the high mucky muck who sets the fashions going we would recommend gunny sacks for bables. Cut three holes in the bottom for the head and arms, and have a puckering string at the other end, Presto! What a dream of ease and simplicity!—[Elk Point (S. D.) Leader.

who spilled 500 gallons of whisky into the streets, the gutters running with rare old Bourbon. The deputies quietly walked into the drug stores, shut the front doors, turned the keys, and told the proprietors to bring out their whisky.

For some time complaints have been received by the Dawes Commission at Muskegee of trade in whisky carried on at Tishomingo with Indians. The matter was referred to Washington, and it is said that the President gave the orders which were carried out. It is thought that this will put a stop to selling, whisky to the Indians.—[Philadelphia Record.

A comparatively firm undertone holped an otherwise excessively dull market to keep from falling to pieces by its own weight at New York, while in Chicago, several factors of a buillish character were in evidence. The demand for wheat, however, was not equal to the supply and a weak undertone developed there, which brought down prices of both September and July, the former closing at 48/5-4854 July, the former closing at 48/2@48% and July at 48%.

THE NOMINEES-AND THE PLAT-

Yesterday the Republican Natonal Convention followed out the intructions given to a large majority of its delegates by the people who se-lested them, and nominated Theodore Posevelt to succeed himself as Pres-1 ent of the United States. The nomination was made on the first ballot Roosevelt receiving every one of the $34 votes cast.

For Vice-President, Sensior Charles V. Fairbanks of Indiana was nomirated by acciamation, the formality of a roll call having been dispensed with. Unbounded enthusiasm marked the progress of the day's proceedings. Ux-Gov. Frank Black of New York rade the nominating speech on behalf of the President, and the seconding speeches were made by Senator eridge of Indiana, George A. Knight of California, and others. Sencor Dolliver of lowa made the nominating speech on behalf of Senator Fairbanks, seconded by Senator De-

The history of the Republican party effords no parallel for the unanimity that characterized the action of the convention which has just closed. From beginning to end there was not a note of discord. The Republican party of the nation is united today more completely than ever before. Its and presages victory at the convention adjourned sine die at 2:25

The ticket is one which every loyal Republican can support without reservations or misgivings. The platform stand with sincerity and firmness.

Perhaps the most notable character letic of the platform is its freedom from equivocation. Like the peerless leader who heads the Republican ticket, the platform "says what it means and means what it says" without fear or favor. As a declaration of principles it is pointed, terse, straightforward, admirable. He who runs may read. There is no skulking behind ambiguities, no hypocritical jugphatically a Roosevelt platform, and no one need misinterpret its mean-

Briefly, the platform recites the achievements of the Republican party since 1897, when Mr. Cleveland's secand term of office expired. Four years of Democratic rule had left the country in a sad plight. Wise Republican rule has strengthened the national credit, put money into the depleted Treasury, restored confidence, reestablished tariff protection, built m people a measure of progreater, than they had ever efore. The gold standard has up industries, and brought to the American people a measure of prosperity greater than they had ever been firmly established; the war with government has been organized in Porto Rico; the people of the Philippines have been given the larges measure of civil liberty they have ever enjoyed; the construction of the Isthnian Canal has been assured; wise irrigation laws have been enacted; he army has been reorganized and put in the highest state of efficiency; the building of the mayy has been car ried steadily forward; the administration of the great government departments has been conducted with the maximum of efficiency and the mimimum of loss; wrongdoers in the public service have been hunted down and punished. For these achievements the Republican party has a right to take full credit So much for the nest For the future the platform pledges the Republican party to the maintenance of tariff protection as a cardinal policy of the party. "The measure of protection," says the tariff plank, "should always at least be equal to the difference in the cost of production at home and abroad." The principle of protection must be maintained, and "rates cities in the world. of duty should be readjusted only when conditions have so changed that the public interest demands their al- the beauty of the city and seriously teration." This is a consistent and impairing its property values. We strong declaration, not calculated to cannot, it is equally clear, get along countenance nor encourage unneces- without some means of laying the sary tariff tinkering. "A Democratic tariff," it is declared, "has always been followed by adversity; a Republean tariff by business prosperity.' Statistics will bear out this assertion

Reciprocity is favored only in cases be effected consistent with the principles of protection and 'without injury to American agriculture, Ameri can labor, or any American in-

There is a strong plank in favor of and the integrity of our national cur rency. Other planks favor legislation to build up American shipping; the maintenance of an adequate navy; the continued exclusion of Chinese; the inforcement of the civil service laws; liberal pension appropriations; arbitration of international differences; lands; and the "open door" in the Orlent.

One of the important declarations of the platform is in favor of reducing in Congress and in the Electoral Col lege the representation of States which have unconstitutionally limited the elective franchise, and Congres sional action is recommended to de termine to what extent, and in what States the franchise hers. The abridged.

The plank relating to capital and ladeclares that "combinations of capital and of labor are the results of th economic movement of the age, but neither must be permitted to infringe upon the rights and interests of the people," and that "such combinations, when lawfully formed for lawful puroses, are alike entitled to the protect tion of the laws, but both are subject to the laws, and neither can be per mitted to break them." This plank might have been somewhat more specific but there is no doubt as to its meaning, and there is no encouragement in it for the lawlessness prac ticed by labor trusts, any more than for the lawless methods of capitalistic trusts. Both are classed in the same category, so far as their amenability to the laws of the land are concerned

This is right. The platform highly and heartily commends the administration of President Roosevelt, closing in these words: "His administration has been thoroughly vigorous and honorable, high-minded and patriotic. We com mend it without reservation to the considerate judgment of the American

O'L THE STREETS:

The superiority of oil over water as an agent for laying the dust on public highways may be regarded as having been fully demonstrated by the experimental work of the past few years. In Southern California, where oil has been properly applied to the country roads, the dust nuisance has been practically done away with, whereas it was formerly a very serious drawback, and a continuing heavy expense where water was used in the effort, never very successful, to keep the dust laid. Experiments made upon city streets have demonstrated that oil is far more efficient in laying the dust than water, and that in the end it is less expensive, though slightly more costly in the initial outlay. In view of these facts, the right ourse of the city of Los Angeles to pursue in the premises is obvious. So oon as practicable, the use of water for street sprinkling purposes should be superseded by the use of oil.

Aside from the demonstrated superi ority of oil for the purpose indicated, there are other considerations equally potent. Water in this part of the ountry is not a very plentiful commodity. At the present time, some thing like one and a half millions of gallons of water per day are required to sprinkle the streets of Los Angeles. Even with this great amount of water thrown upon the streets daily, the dust is not satisfactorily laid. The streets are either muddy, when too nuch water is used, or they are too dry when not enough is used. There s already a shortage of water for domestic use and the irrigation of lawns and flower gardens. The city is growing at an unprecedented rate. and the demands upon the domestic water system are increasing in corresponding ratio. It is only a quesion of time when choice will have to be made between the use of water for street sprinkling and its use for lawns and gardens. The laying of the street dust is an imperative necessity. On the other hand, the lawns and flowers, which are a feature of every home, constitute the glory of beautiful Los Angeles, making it one of the lovellest

We cannot, it is clear, give up the lawns and flowers without sacrificing dust in our busy streets. Oil the streets-this is the rational deduction nore expensive than the use of water for the purpose, olled streets would perforce be the final solution of the problem, because the available water supply is limited. But oiled streets are cheaper in the end than watered streets, in addition to being far more satisfactory. Under our ardent sunshine the water soon evaporates from the street surface, leaving it dry and the maintenance of the gold standard dusty. Where water is used, the dust must be laid anew every day, and two or three times a day. On a properly oiled street the dust is laid effectively for weeks, only two or three applications being required the first season and one or two light applications per season thereafter, in order to keep the surface in first class condition. and practically free from dust.

Even if the use of oil were much

The Council has under considers tion the question of substituting oil for water on most of the streets of Los Angeles. The evidence is overwhelming and conclusive in favor of the use of oil, and the Council will do well to act in accordance with that fact In the matter of the offer of the street railroads to oil their rights of way. The Times does not now undertake to say how, or upon what basis, cost of the entire work should be ador is concise but comprehensive. It justed. The requisite agreement and arrangements can be made later, as may be found just and expedient. A plan would have to be adopted, of course, by which the work would be done in a uniform manner. These details can probably be arranged without difficulty. The main thing is to adopt the street oiling system and to retire the sprinkling wagons as soon as the change can conveniently be brought about COME UNIONISM ABSURDITIES. S Recently 200 union miners in Utah were discharged for leaving their work for a day without permis sion. It was a "union holiday" of some kind-a "holiday" established by the unions, and without significance to other persons than union members.

The men were warned by their em ployers that if they quit work on that day, they would be discharged. They disregarded the warning, and are now looking for work.

This illustrates one of the absurd ities of unionism. There are certain recognized holidays, observed alike by employer and employé. Any other holidays must obviously be established by the man who pays the wages, not by the men who work for them. establish any other precedent would be to disorganize the entire industrial system; for there would then be nothing to prevent workmen from quitting Building Bill, and fortunately for Los as often as they might elect, regardless of the effect of such action upon the welfare of the employer and his business. Manifestly the Utah com pany which discharged its employes who disobeyed company rules and at tempted to dictate how the company

The legislature failed in its duty but what did this have to do with the strike of the millmen and the miners, or with the bloodshed which accompanied these strikes? panied these strikes?

Absolutely nothins, either directly or indirectly. Mr. Baker's statement to the contrary is manifestly due to ignorance of the facts.

The eight-hour day had been in effect in nearly all the metalliferous mines in the state for years.

The first strike which ied up to the miners' strike was ordered by Presi-

The first strike which led up to the miners' strike was ordered by President Moyer at the Standard mill, Colorado City, on February 14, 1903.

This was nearly fifty days before the eight-hour law was killed in the State Senate. Surely it is not reasonable to think that Mr. Moyer ordered the strike because he thought the Assembly might fail in its duty at some future time!

But the more important fact is that sembly might fail in its duty at some future time!

But the more important fact is that the millmen did not even mention "eight hours" in their first demand, for the good and sufficient reason that the eight-hour day had been in effect in the Standard mill for five years. They asked for more wages and recognition of the union which their employers refused to grant.

Three days after this first strike occurred Mr. Moyer said in public that he might call out the Cripple Creek miners working in mines shipping to this mill. What did the eight-hour question have to do with this?

The eight-hour day had been in effect in Cripple Creek for ten years.

On March 18, nineteen days before the eight-hour law was killed, Mr. moyer carried out his threat and the union miners at the mines shipping ore to the Standard mill quit work. This was done for the declared purpose of forcing the mill to accede to the unon's demands or close down.

Eleven days later, on April 1, 1903, a settlement was effected and the men went back to work.

Later on Mr. Moyer renewed the strike in both places on the ground that the mill at Colorado City was not living up to its agreement to remploy the union men. All miners were called out whether their employers shipped ore to the tabooed mill or not.

The main floor will be used for library purposes, and until the demand for more space becomes imperative the lower floor will be used for a part of the work in science. It will contain a museum, a laboratory and a lecture hall. Ultimately the building will be used for library purposes exclusively. The plans have been compared with those of many large city and college libraries, and are in line with the requirements of modern library buildings. The college now has about four thousand volumes, and the branch of the city library will be of great advantage to the institution.

It is the hope of the Board of Trustees that a library endowment fund may be established, the annual income from which could be used to increase the library. Miss Anna C. Latimer, B.A., instructor in history, has been appointed the librarian.

President Wadsworth in his address yesterday spoke of the fact that the Stimson library was the first building to be erected by an individual for the college. The Hall of Letters, the massive walls of which were reared in the center of the campus, had been made possible by the help of more than 300 persons; but the hope was expressed that the three other corners of the campus might be adorned by buildings efected by some philanthropic friends of the college.

Wash waists radically reduced

Greatest values are not always found where reductions are greatest. Question is, What sort of values were they at regular prices? That's what tells the story. Coulter waists are never marked up to permit of a mark-down—they're never marked a penny above their honest worth. So Coulter reductions mean real savings:

Tailor waists of white lawn with cluster of fine tucks and hem-stitching. Some prettily trimmed with embroidery. Truly remark-able values.

Waists of fine white Jap-anese wash silks with pleats and Old English Sated about a round table in the cost dining-room of the Los Angeles Country Club, the members of the Mariborough Club enjoyed their annual luncheon yesterday. The room was fragrant with many sweet peas, and the line of pretty faces and flowers summer gowns about the table made a charming picture. Mrs. Thadleus Lowe, who is the president, was a clever toastmistress, and wit and merriment bubbled high under her yr regime. The table was decorated with the Mariborough School color, awander. In the center of the table Dutch basket tied with large bows of lavender ribbon, and filled with svender sweet peas, was striking, and over the table were scattered naidenhair ferns in dainty array. Each place was marked with tiny orngewood baskets filled with maidenhair ferns, tied with bows of lavender fibbon. Among those who sat at the loard were Mrs. George A. Caswell, irs. C., where he is taking a course in law and language. He has been a member of the Columbian Debating Club for the past season, and also an active member of the Columbian Rowing Club, both of which have received social recognition in Washington, Philadelphia and Baitimore, the Columbian teams having won many of the intercollegists contests. Last evening Mr. Behymer and Mr. Szymonowsky were guests of the Progress-Circle, when Mr. Szymonowsky entertained the club with a descriptive talk on the Russian writer, Turgeneff and his sportsmen sketches.

Artist Weds Musician.

One of the home weddings of the "Merry month of June" was that of May Olive Sands and the painter of Negroes, Harry Roseland of Brookiyn, N. Y. Miss Sands, a chic brunette, is the daughter of Capt. Charles J. Sands, U.S.A., retired, formerly of New York, and later American Consul to Chingkiang, China. Mr. Roseland first became well known to the art world through his popular fortune-telling pictures.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. A. W. Bunker Wednesday at the residence of the bride's parents on Kensington road, this city, which place was made a bower of loveliness with flowers grouped in Chinese vases, souvenirs of the captain's sojourn in the Orient, and forming an effective backiground for the bride, gowned in her traveling dress of tan taffeta. Only the relatives were present. Immediately after the ceremony the couple left for a six months' journey through California and the West, including a visit to the World's Fair at St. Louis, and, if possible, a trip to Europe. SANTA BARBARA, June 22.—Santa Barbara is now in the midst of a most unpleasant affair in educational circles. The rows and bickering, which have been common occurrences in the schools are insignificant when compared to the present troubles between the Board of Education and the teachers. Some say that three women teachers in the High School are running the entire school system of the city and the Board of Education as well.

Live Snake Found In the Capitol and its Presence There a Mystery. Forest Fires in Northern Part of Territory—Theft of Gold Bullion

PHOENIX (Ariz.) June 21.—The preliminary examination of Prof. R. L.
McDonnold, SuperIntendent of the Phoenix Public Schools, in jail here charged with forgery, has been postponed at the defendant's request till next Saturday. McDonnold maintains his innocence of the charge and his attorneys in asking for the continuance of the hearing say they propose at the examination to present a complete defense, one that will exonerate their client and leave no ground for holding him to the grand jury.

The defense referred to, not being yet perfected, the postponement was granted. The public is very much interested in the case, and there is great wonder respecting what defense the man can offer, since it is a matter of general report that certain of the trustees whose names are attached to the paper offered as security by McDonnold, will swear that the documents are forged.

TESTIMONIAL FROM

Times Scholarship Winners Make Model Students—Boys Forging to the Fore-Girls Will Not Have it All Their Own Way.

President E. R. Shrader of the Los Angeles Business College, eaking of students who gained admission to his college through their own efforts and the cooperation of the schools and The Times,

We are glad to help those who are working to secure an education, as we have found that former students who received these scholarships have proven earnest scholars and are to be found among our miners. There are scores of them, and it would be interesting to know that they are all doing since they left theel, or how they are progressing in their studies if they have not yet completed their education. Drop a few has to the Scholarshin Manager, tellar him how you are getting along and that lasting benefit you have received through participating in a scholarshin matest. Your experience may help them.

In former contests the girls have car-fed off the lion's share of the honors out of a class of thirty-five scholar-als winners last year only twelve of the prises went to boys. From present be prizes went to boys. From present blications, the result is not going to so one-sided this year. Among dirty-two contestants thus far an ananced, exactly one-half are boys, and there are some very bright and ensettle lads in the bunch. Most of the same saiming hish, and the girls will are to look well to their laurels or the big prizes will be won by representatives of the sterner sex. June 22.-A man named Burt Judie has been sentenced from Naco, on the Mexican line, to the from Naco, on the Mexican line, to the County Jail in Tombstone for 300 days, for stealing a six-shooter and a suit of clothes from Liggett's transfer office in Naco. There is a story that this theft was the direct cause of the duel in Naco between Otto Moore and Bonnhauser, as the result of which both men are dead. Moore was an employé of Liggett and stated that the clothes and sun were stolen from the clothes and gun were stolen from the Wells Fargo office of which Bonn-hauser was agent. The quarrel and shooting followed, the guilt of Judie becoming known too late.

MAKE A NOTE OF THIS.

One thing that the contestants should make a note of, is that a great many subscribers renew their subscriptions about the first of the month. Any present subscriber paying his subscription to the Daily Times for the current month, or paying for one month or more in advance, will be entitled to vote for some candidate for a scholarship, twenty-five points being allowed for payment of one month's subscription, sixty points for two months, 100 points for three months, and so on in increasing proportion, to 500 points for one year's subscription. On new subscriptions just twice as many points will be credited for the corresponding periods as on old ones.

The date for opening the contest was set for June 27, 'so as to give the contestants the advantage of many payments on subscriptions that will be made during the closing days of the month, and the many new ones that will begin July 1. Many subscribers to other papers who desire a change, usually discontinue their old subscriptions at the end of a month, and subscribers to each of the payment of a new month. There will be many changing to The Times July 1, because they will want a good newspaper to get all the political news, now that the Presidential campaign is getting under way. All new subscribers who pay in advance for The Times will have a voice in deciding who shall get The Times scholarships and cash prizes. The contestants will do well to look up all prospective new subscribers between now and July 1, so as to get the scholarship voice. University of Southern California.

An interesting programme was rendered, including two bright, sparkling songs. "Charmant Papillon" and "Stolen Wings," by Miss Jennie Winsston, and Bach's aria on the G string, and Moszkowski's matchless serenata by the Krauss Quartette. This was followed by the "Mariborough Violet," sung by the pupils of the school, for the "Mariborough Violet" was composed by a Mariborough girl, and is a recognized part of the commencement of each successive year.

Mrs. Caswell, the principal of the institution, made an address to the graduates replete with clear-cut advice for the making of a gracious and noble womanhood. She then awarded the diplomas to Miss Mary Bernard, Miss Marguerite Brown, Miss Mary Cornella Murnham, Miss Barbara Chrisman, Miss Beatrice Duff, Miss Aurora Ellis, Miss Rowena Newton, Miss Florence Porter, Miss Ava Raze, Miss Caroline Trask, Miss Cara Vickers, and Miss Eva Conget.

the school home. Miss Romaine Poindexter was given the tournament cup for spelling, nine tournaments having been held during the year and the cup awarded to the most frequent winner of the tournaments.

The juniors went out at this stage and brought in the magnificent profusion of flowers for the graduates, and so numerous were the offerings that the entire school, and the alumni as well, had to assist in carrying the fragrant beauties. Thus flower-laden, all joined in singing the song of "School Lang Syne," and left a lingering picture in the minds of the beholders of girlish grace.

They recall the fizzle, which they say was unavoidable, as the people did not want Oxnard for their Senator and of the Omaha Bee couldn't warm them to such an extent that all the hot air of the Omaha Bee couldn't warm them and he ducked for California, leaving the expenses of his political booster unpaid.

"The people of Nebraska found out very clearly that Oxnard, while he had Senatorial aspirations, did not have the welfare of the State at heart to such an extent that he was willing to further the beet industry there for the benefit of the people, but it was exclusively for his own private gain," said one of the Nebraskans yesterday. "Through Oxnard's manipulation a bill was passed by the State Legislature which provided for a bounty of about $2.50 a ton on sugar beets grown in Nebraska. The object of the bill was supposed to encourage the industry as times were hard and the ground was lying failow. Shortly after the passage of the bill Oxnard sent his agents through the country and signed up contracts to supply the farmers with seeds if they would sell the beets at a certain price and relinquish claim to the bounty. The farmers seeing their beets sold before they were even planted gladly accepted the terms.

"The industry thrived but when the

A few months ago Oxnard took up a sugar campaign in Southern California, sending pretty girls and later men agents around to tell the people that they ought to use beet sugar because it was a home industry, and to point out to them how much they should appreciate Oxnard's endeavor to develop the resources of the State through the big factories. Today beet sugar is quoted at $5.85 a sack, which is just 10 cents higher than it has been at any time during the last two years.

THOUGHTLESS PLEASURE SEEKERS.

The county health officers are cooperating with the forest reserve officers to prevent the extensive practice of picnic parties in polluting the mountain streams, and the order has gone forth that should arrests fall to prevent the evil the various cafions used as resorts will be closed to the public. The trouble reached its climax Sunday, when over 500 people spent the day in Devil's Cafion and filled the stream with the refuse from their lunch baskets, the water being littered with chicken bones, meats, the cans and other débris, making it unfit to drink. In addition to this, numerous persons waded about in the water, and those below found it impossible to get pure water all day. The offense is a serious one, and the health board proposes to prosecute violators to the extent of the law.

FULLERTON, June 33.—Mr, and Mrs. Embree returned tonight frem Los Angeles, where they conducted a futile search for their 17-year-old daughter. Cora, who disappeared from home yesterday, and who was supposed to have eloped with Roy Telling of Pasidena. They are almost heartboken over the failure of their effort, for they have been unable to find the slightest trace of the girl.

Until late tonight it was still believed here that the girl had eloped and in order to prevent her marriage her father telegraphed to county clerks in various counties telling them not to issue a marriage license to his daughter. Tonight information was received from Pasadena that young Telling had returned home and that he asserted he did not know where the girl is. This only deepens the mystery, although it only deepens the mystery, although it convinces her friends that she did not elope. It is believed Telling knows where she is. Her father will make another trip to Los Angeles, where the day's work is beginn in the school. The class then sang "The Lost Chord," after which the invited speaker of the evening, Hon. William A. Cheney, delivered an address on "The Symhetry of Intellect."

It was a splendid address—eloquent, useful. Following a brief review the efforts made in the State Legislature which finally led to the organization of the Los Angeles State Normal School in 1882, the speaker dwelt upon the theme of the human mind, its development, use and unlimited capacity when properly exerted. Speaking of the school's small beginning, he said: "The beginning was indeed small, and the promise not large, but the school grew and grew, and during the last decade it has turned out some of the best material in the world of teachers. Much of its development it owes to the man who gave his energy, attention, intellect, prayer and courage to Continuing, the speaker extolled the power of the human mind when exerted, under the guidance of the divine power. I have a profound sense of gratitude to God that He has permitted me to work for over the third of a century in the public and normal schools of this and other States. As I retire from active service in the educational field I wish to express my sincere thanks to the large number of students who have sat under my teaching for their confidence and friendship, to the many members of the different faculties who have so cheerfully and faithfully side by side with me, and to the board of trustees who have so universally assisted me in my efforts to improve our system of public-school education. I carry with me into the fature a deep and abiding interest in the continued welfare of the State Normal School at Los Angeles. I sincerely wish that my successor, Dr. Millspaugh, were here, that I might introduce him to you. He is a gentleman of culture and high purpose. I am glad to claim him as a friend. I hope that all my friends will heartily support him in his earnest efforts to advance the interests of the school."

the flame refused to be suppressed longer and burst forth in all its fury from its many years of confinement. The center of Jimmle's affections became fixed upon a spinster of Los Angeles, who had also passed her three-score years and ten, and who was "willin"," so "Jimmle" led her blushingly to the altar with all the ardor of a youth, and she became Mrs. Minnie Gillespie.

This happened last March, and for six long, happy weeks there was nothing but cooing and billing in the Gillespie home. Then something, it may have been the cooking, came over the spirit of their happy dreams. Minnie left the fireside and made statements to the effect that Jimmle had treated her cruelly, had abused her and had ordered her to leave. After leaving she employed a firm of lawyers and sued "Jimmle" for a divorce, and kept him constantly side-stepping in other ways. Gillespie then proposed that their troubles be compromised, which was first blood for Minnie, After considerable sparring and playing for time, Minnie landed the compromise purse, which consisted of $150 of "Jimmle's" money.

This seemed to settle it, but now Minnie comes back with a cry of "Joul" and claims she was coerced into signing the articles of agreement, which had released Jimmle of all further responsibility as far as Minnie was concerned. At the time of signing the agreement Mrs. Gillespie did not know that Jimmle had property worth $8000 and cash amounting this she has brought suit to have the agreement quashed so that she can enter the contest for a larger slice of the purse. "Jimmle" makes the startling statement that he "will fight the case for forty years" rather than give Minnie another cent.

Perdicaris and Holds Him for Ranson.

[Pittsburgh Dispatch:] Fraissoull brigand by profession and Moraccan by birth, is the man of the hour, despite the fact that he is not a Pittsburgher. Three great nations for once have their eyes rivieted on one man, the diplomats and navies of three world powers have been unusually active the past few weeks striving to correct a situation made uncommonly dangerous man. It is a peculiar condition and it makes the character of the single brigand of uncommon interest, not only in America, but in every civilized country of Europe, Praissouli is certainly in the public gaze of Morocco, in the lime-light as it were, and at present the searchlights of several ships are metaphorically turned toward the mountains where he and his disreputable band lurk. Into those inaccessible defiles his followers retreated recently after a daring foray. His courage and shrewdness are admired qualities among all Moroccans, and his great retinue of rough riders spread terror in the rugged region they infest. He comes from one of the oldest and best-known Shereefan families of Tuetan. But early in life he proved the black sheep and dirfted into a marauding avocation. Murder succeeded quickly his first exclusive crimes of highway robbery.

When he began his career of brigandage his success had not gone far before he was imprisoned in the "Black Hole" at Mogadore, but friends secured his release. Then he gathered a band of kindred spirits about him and located within twenty miles of Tangier, the port which figures so constantly in the present cable news. The guerillas ravaged the country, levying tribute upon the people, carrying off their cattle and avenging any attempt to repress their merry course by murdering in cold blood the chief men of the villages.

When the wer which the Anglicized Sultan began waging some years ago

ed and that fact establishes its corollary in the pending trouble. The Sultan can be stirred from indolence and apathy and his troops can accomplish something.

Then reprisals were made of the brigand's friends in the villages, and the Sultan's troops imitated Fraissouli in stealing cattle and looting here and there. To succor his friends thus oppressed Fraissouli executed a coup. He abducted the British correspondent, W. B. Harris, and proferred his release as the price of immunity for his adherents.

His present proposition to the Sultan, that a ransom be paid for his captives, Perdicaris and his stepson, and that he himself be made Governor of the very territory where he exercises brigand's sway, is but repetition of his former strategy. There was the same threat of death if the ransom were not paid and he was able to secure his terms. Whether such an ending may not be the only feasible method of saving the life of the present captives is matter of grave debate, and if not. Great Britain certainly furnished Fraissouli much encouragement by too ready compliance before.

The retainers of Mulai Ahmed Fraissouli belong to the most feroclous of all the Moroccan tribes, the Riffians, and their country is known as that of the Rif. from the mountains. As a passing speculation it might be added that possibly the slang phrase "Riff-raff" thus originates, but it doesn't. Exact information as to the nativity of Ion Perdicaris, the aged American, held captive with his family in the mountains, has never yet been furnished, but, however variant the accounts, it is established that he is an American birth.

Some claim he was born in Athens, Greece, while his father was Consui-General there, while others assert his birth was in Trenton, N. J. Some indifference to his fate crops out at times because he has spent so much time abroad and lived in iuxury in his palaital home near Tangier. But, unlike william Waldorf Astor, he never expatriated himself. Another great point in his favor is the well-authenticated fact that his vill

These betterments did not wholly please the stagnant Moors, who resent intrusion of foreign ideas in their land. The tutelage exercised for a time over the Sultan, who has adopted London manners, with automobiles and cameras figuring, caused a revolt, duly obvoniced at the time. Why Perdictions of the control of the time. the Sultan, who has adopted London manners, with automobiles and cameras figuring, caused a revolt duly chronicled at the time. Why Perdicaris should have preferred Tangler as his favorite residence has not been revealed. It is famous as a health resort, and probably its picturesque customs and modes of life exerted a fascination upon his Greek mind. After all, the sky and the air around Tangler are like that above Athens, and nobody now cares to dwell in the famous Greek city.

YE ADVERTISING MUSE.

When Jove on high Olympus sate— He sate there nearly every day— Some maidens fair approached gate
And entered in a bashful way,

"We are the Muses nine." said they,
"A tenth has lately paid her dues;
Shake hands with Sister Boomderay,
The gentle advertising Muse."

"I'm glad to know you, Sis," said "I'm glad to know you, Sis," said Jove.
"What, may I ask, is your long suit?"
(Here, stealthily, he nipped a clove To kill his breath—the wise galoot,) Quoth Boomderay, no longer mute.
"I sing of health foods, boots and shoes, Pickles and soap and can-ned fruit—I am the advertising Muse."

Old Clio, Muse of scraps and such, Remarked, "She's only breaking in, And though she doesn't count for much

And has her spurs yet to win,
She gave us such a heap of chin
That we can't very well refuse
To help her—she so pale and thin
Poor little advertising Muse."

Euterpe shed some pitying tears, Gay Thalia looked exceeding blue, And Jove exclaimed, "I reckon here's A chance to please the bunch of you!
We'll have to organize anew,
I have no doubt that we can use
Another first-class Muse or two,
So, welcome, advertising Muse."

Long years rolled by, as authors say,
And from a lass of timid mien
The strenuous sittle Boomderay
Has grown to be the Muses' queen
And every verse you've ever seen
In praise of breakfast food or booze
Is fashioned in the great machine
Run by the advertising Muse!

Running a hundred Royal arcanumites within hearing dropped all else to see the fun. Running a hundred yards in the sand was the first number, and J. Fleming proved the best flounderer, with R. E. Reading acoring second prize. Time was about half an hour from first to last. Funny as the first number was, it was forgotten in the roars of laughter which greeted the ladies' potato race. Eight matrons of family sacrificed themselves to the picnickers' amusement, and Mrs. W. Walker led Mrs. R. H. Ford a merry chase to the finish with the rest trailing behind. The "also rans" were Mrs. Jackson, Mrs. Maloon, Mrs. Dodd, Mrs. McLean, Mrs. Goff and Mrs. Henton.

Lee Chambers of Santa Monica was the best broad jumper, and ten feet was the prize. George Robertson leaped nine feet seven inches and landed squarely in the middle of a box of candy.

was the prize. George Robertson leaped nine feet seven inches and landed squarely in the middle of a box of candy.

Sprinter Fleming proved he could run 200 yards as fell as 100 by cleaning up the trophies in the latter event also, and R. Ford was second. The five bath tickets Fleming won were just enough to wash off the sweat he raised earning them; 200 yards' run through the sand is a day's work. Ford won some tintypes.

Fair damsels and ladies of family next sallied forth to disprove the time-honored adage that no woman can drive a nail. She who sent home five nails in the least time was to be declared the winner. Daisy Howard proved the best one-hand knocker by doing the feat in eighteen seconds.

Mrs. Walker, a second slower, took second prize. A dozen photos and a box of candy were the trophies. Some of the ladies thumped their fingers and a few mutilated the poor board shamefully, but the majority were on their mettle and the novelty was declared a huge success.

Royal Arcanum Sandows next hied for the shot-put. Chief aide-de-camp Engelbrecht and Aide Scheckels had forth to a clear patch on the beach for the shot-put. Chief aide-de-camp Engelbrecht and Aide Scheckels had the honors all to themselves, half an inch separating them. Engelbrecht pitched the lead 25 feet 11½ inches; the rest didn't.
